

Roy Lipski, CEO, Velocys

Roy Lipski has been heading fast growing technology companies for over 17 years. He has pioneered modular GTL since 2005 when he helped found Oxford Catalysts (now Velocys), leading it through an IPO and subsequent acquisition of Velocys Inc., a world leader in microchannel process technology, raising over $130 million from institutional investors. Roy holds an Honours degree from Cambridge University, majoring in biochemistry. He began his career working at Goldman Sachs in London.