

Brendan O'Mahony, Director, Access Partnership

Brendan manages an international, multi-lingual team of regulatory experts who get short-turn-around authorisations for commercial and government clients across the globe. He is expert at providing regulatory clarity where there appears to be none, and producing bankable analysis on process, risk, costs and timing for market access strategies around the world. Brendan joined Access Partnership after a varied career working for telecommunications organisations in North America, the Caribbean, the Middle East, and Eastern Europe. Most recently, Brendan was as CEO of the Institute of Telecommunications Professionals. Prior to that Brendan was also a senior member of staff at ICO Global Communications, where he delivered a global commercial interconnect/access network that spanned the globe. Brendan also worked for Cable & Wireless for 17 years in a variety of roles, where he was responsible for international interconnection agreements, pricing and government relations in pursuit of pan-Caribbean mobile networks.
